ABSTRACT: The water resources of the Transylvanian Plain rivers. The realisation of a regional system of water supply which contributes to the lasting development of the Transylvanian Plain needs a previous detailed knowledge of the autochthonous water resources. Therefore, the water resources of the rivers have been evaluated, analysing in the first part of the paper the annual medium runoff and the hydric sum and the conditions of the medium runoff per month and pe season. As the economical value of the water resources also depends to a great extent on their variation in time, the second part of the paper presents the variation parameters per year, season dna per month during the period 1968-1990.
